Reflecting on Roundabout Networking

At this point of the Roundabout, it could be informative for the evaluation of the learning process itself and further networking developments to reflect on the network that you activated. Use the following questions as a checklist for monitoring your progress and making informed decisions about your future networking.

1. Which institutions and partners are currently in your professional network?
2. Did you identify resources or stakeholders locally available or potentially relevant for the implementation of the Roundabout in your context?
3. Do you see any special features in cooperation with network partners when it comes to dealing with specific customer concerns?
4. Do you see differences in the cooperation with network partners when it comes to counselling individual clients or companies?
5. How do you organise your network maintenance and coordination? Which actions could you implement to enlarge your network and make it more supportive?
